The Tay Bridge commissioners have presented two reports, the majority report censures more or less severely the contractors, engineers and the North Britisth Bailway Co. The design of the bridge is condemned and the company charged with neglecting to keep it in proper repair. Although the construction of the bridge was faulty, the commissioners believe that it might have weathered the storm and lasted for years had it been kept in thorough repair. The minority report arrives at substantially the same conclusion, but differs on matters of detail.

By Universal Accord,

Alex's Cattaint's Pills are the best of all purytives for family use. They are the product of long laborious and successful chemical investigation, and their extensive use by physicians in the practice and by all civilized nations, proves them the best and most effectual purgative pill that medical science can devise. Being purely vegeta bia, no harm oan arise from their use. In intrinsic sellue and curative powers no other Pills can be compared with them, and every person knowing their virtues will employ them when needed. They keep the system in perfect order and maintain in healthy action the whole machinery of life, Mild.
searching and effectual, they are specially adapted to the needs of the digestive apparatus, derangements of which they prevent and cure if timely taken. They are the best and safest physic to employ for children and weakened constitutions, where a mild but effectual contact is required.

A TRAMP.

BY ROSE TERRY COOKE.

That is just it. I was a tramp. In the light of to-day I have to admis it but I must. I had been a machinist, with is pretty, gentle wife, good wages, a pleasant home, and then the hard times quane. Hard enough they were to millions beside the, but I did not think of them. I had more means than many others I knew—food. If it was correct free others I knew-food, if it was correct fire enough for warmth-but what I wanted, cried out for, raged because I could not get, cried out for, raged because I could not get, was delicate living and luxries for Annie, for she was dring. I know nothing could have saved her; consumption is helpless and hopeless; but one day when I went down to the Churleston steamer, the day she sailed, to adjust some little matter in the muchinery that they thought out of gest. I saw the wife of one of the firm for whom I worked up town brought on board to go to Flurida for the winter.

She looked a little like Annie Ane eyes were clear and gray to the counter.

She looked a little like Annie, her eyes were clear and gruy too, and her froe wan fewer clear and gruy too, and her froe wan fewer clear and gruy too, and her froe wan fewer clear and seet. She was wrapped in soft shawls and syeng back in a chair carried by two servants; a kind-faced murse was with her and her husband beside aer. I had a glumpse at her state crom as I pasted through the cabin, for they were arranging so that she might be settled before the other passengers came aboard. It was like 1 nest, crowded with comfort. If I could have staten that fur-lined cost and that swinging chair I would have done it; us it wis I swore.

What had this woman done to have all and my parent wife to have nothing? I kept thinking of all this; brioding day and night as wages grow lower and work less, and Annie faded awny. She was a good woman, that wife of mine, and not a bit iffind to die; but she was afruid to leve me in the furious bitter cas of my condition then.

One day I came hum and found her paler than ever. I had bought her an orange, but she could not taste it. I set down by the lounge, and she put her thin white hands in mine."

Her eyes grew a little darker at that, and she amiled; she was not scared a mite; else only asid very quictly—
"If any man will not work, he ther should he eat."
"That may be your opinion, miss, but it isn't mine. The world owes me: living, and I am bound to have it," I growlee baok.
"How so?" she answered. "What have you done for the world to put it in your debt?"
I couldn't answer this quest-on; it was like a blow in the face, so I sweep again and demanded some dinner.

I quildn't answer this question; it was like a blow in the face, so I sweep again and demanded some dinner.

"I shall not give you any," she said, quite as calmiy as ever. "If you wre sick, or feeble, or crippled, helpless in any way, it would be different; but you are a strong, likely man, and you can earn your living just as well as I can."

I looked at her slight, straight figure.

I looked at her elight, straight figure.
"Do you work for a living?" I asked.
"Yes; I have worked ever since I was a years old. I was bound out 'hen, and I worked at whip-braiding. I haven't any 'be buttons—any near one I mean there is robedy to take care of me. I have to work, and I am glad I can." I swore a vay common eath, calling, on God to punish me if I would stand that if I were alse.

Her face flushed.
"Bort do that again!" she sa d. "If you want to be lost; he hears such requests gludy. "God is your father; he dee, not like to punish you even if you ask him to; he'd ever so, much rather forgive you."

I nayor was so taken aback.
"Look here," I said after a me neat, "der't you think it's outrageous that, a pretty to have diff like you should be working for living when there's thousands of women better that you be rolling in the rearranges?"
"No; God put me here, and them these God know best."
"Well, you seem to think God knows a good deal. I olaim to know sornething my self; and I believe folks all lave equal, rights."
"Do you? she said, "so do I; some rights. Rights toget ready to die und to serve God with well well."

PRESENCE OF MIND ON A LOCOS OTIVE
Accidents are prevented by a lighting like application of presence of mind on the part of the engineer: A hundred instances of remarkable presence of mind on might be cited in this connection | A passenger train on the Chicago, Bri ing ton and Quinoy Road was rounding a sharp curve, just under a patch of tall limber The watchful engineer saw a stree lying across the track sixty feet a lead of the locomotive. The train was running at a speed of 35 miles per hour, and to check its memeatum before reaching the obstruction was out of the question. The engineer took in the strin atian at a glance. He threw the throttle wide open, and the engine shot a lead when the velocity of an arrow and with question. The engineer took in the said attant at a glance. He threw the throttle wide open, and the engine shot a lead with the velocity of an arrow, and with such tremendous force that the tree was picked up by the cow catcher and from the truck as if it had been only a meand on a willow withe. A man with not from the track as if it had been only a weed or a willow withe A man with not so cool a head would have made the best possible use of those sixty feet in the way of checking the speed of the train That would have caused a disaster Sam bradford, one of the best engineers in the country, was bringing an express train over the Kankakee line from Indi anapoles are Ambarages one from Indianapoles. As the engine shot out from a deep cut and struck a short piece of straight track leading to a bridge, a serior coils were discovered running full tilt down the road. This distance to the river was only 100 feet. Sam knew the could not stop the train. Ass. Income. he could not stop the train, also know that if the colts beat the locomotive to the bridge they would fall between the tumbers and the obstruction would throw the train off and probably result in a frightful loss of life It took him only half a second to think of all this.
